MKULTRA and CIA Circumcision Research

Posted by THE EDITORS on FEBRUARY 23, 2021

By Harvey Muraka

In the 1960's and 1970's, the CIA undertook various research projects that were organized under the umbrella of Project MK-ULTRA. The goal of these experiments was to formulate methods of accessing and directing the minds of individuals and groups subjected to various techniques, such as hypnosis and existing occult knowledge of "mind control," interrogation, torture, and [newly-developed psychotropic compounds]. In 1973, the project was officially closed, most files destroyed—more likely, hidden—and the CIA had a come-to-Jesus moment in front of Congress and the American people, although some suspect that the experiments merely moved off the books and into private or international hands, a la Iran-contra and the Finders Cult. One area of the CIA's research that is rarely talked about, or even known, is male circumcision or genital mutilation.

CIRCUMCISION TEST IN 'CI DISCLOSED IN C.I.A. DATA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (Reuter)—The Central Intelligence Agency conducted experiments in psychological warfare that included a study to weaken the resistance of prisoners to Communist persuasion, it was disclosed today in the agency's annual report to Congress.

The report, which was released by Representative Otis G. Pike, Democrat of New York, chairman of the House Select Committee on Intelligence, described the experiments briefly. It said that the agency had "documented, studied, the agency had "documented, studied, the agency operation of a series of secret tests in Iran between the ages of 5 and 7. Dick Cavett Show Sept. 30, 1975 Circumcision Test in CIA Mind Control Experiments Declassified Documents Show the Secret Service chose the boys from a notice published in the Tehran Times. The documents, which are the latest in a series released by the committee, include a report that MK-ULTRA, was initiated in the 1950's and was designed to "investigate and counter the use of unwitting subjects in clandestine operations, and generally deal with the problem of manipulation of personality and later some to learn that such tests would never be conducted [illegible]

We can start with the paper Psychological Effects of Circumcision published in the British Journal of Medical Psychology in December 1965. The paper was written by the (likely pseudonymous) researcher "Goske Canawver." See it at least took a couple times. Maybe flip the order of names when you do. Huh. Weird.

Canawver describes a study of the psychology of boys circumcised between the ages of 4 and 7 in both before and after the surgery. He found a number of psychological consequences and reports the following trends among the subjects:

- lower IQ as measured 7 days after the operation
- infantile regression of drawings and expressed wishes
- greater measured levels of aggression
- new fears and anxieties
- weaker control over primitive impulses to the point of maladaption
- greater egocentricity towards their mothers
- [withdrawal from human relationships and difficulty responding to demands of external world]
- perceptions of having been castrated

It turns out that in 1961, the CIA had payed "Canawver" to study the effects of circumcision, and he found that it made boys dumber, more infantile, more fearful, and more aggressive, with less control over their base instincts and a likely decline of aggression towards the most significant human figure in their lives, their mothers. It's still unconfirmed that this antisocial behavior takes place in a role in decision-making, which is why propaganda and advertising are so widespread. How attached will men be to their women if they are surgically predisposed more to masturbate to pornography than to enjoy normal, PIV sex? Is it really a stretch to claim that enjoyment of sex is decreased, or by the existing or increased resistance of men and women across the country?

Canawver describes a study of the psychology of boys circumcised between the ages of 4 and 7 in both before and after the surgery. He found a number of psychological consequences and reports the following trends among the subjects:

- lower IQ as measured 7 days after the operation
- infantile regression of drawings and expressed wishes
- greater measured levels of aggression
- new fears and anxieties
- weaker control over primitive impulses to the point of maladaption
- greater egocentricity towards their mothers
- withdrawal from human relationships and difficulty responding to demands of external world
- perceptions of having been castrated

It turns out that in 1961, the CIA had payed "Canawver" to study the effects of circumcision, and he found that it made boys dumber, more infantile, more fearful, and more aggressive, with less control over their base instincts and a likely decline of aggression towards the most significant human figure in their lives, their mothers. It's still unconfirmed that this antisocial behavior takes place in a role in decision-making, which is why propaganda and advertising are so widespread. How attached will men be to their women if they are surgically predisposed more to masturbate to pornography than to enjoy normal, PIV sex? Is it really a stretch to claim that enjoyment of sex is decreased, or by the existing or increased resistance of men and women across the country?

Let us turn to Search for the Manchurian Candidate, one of the foundational texts on Project MKULTRA.

HUMAN ECOLOGY 159

Omitted [Lifton history, as opposed to people who did not (X)-ray], is a blood ritual in which the foreskin is cut off and the penis is [illegible]. This was the effects of circumcision on Turkish boys. The researcher found that young Turks, usually circumcised between the ages of five and seven, felt "severe emotional impact with alarming symptoms of withdrawal." The children saw the painful operation as "an act of aggression" that brought "unconsciously hidden fears—or so the Human Ecology boys reported."

In MKULTRA, Lifton is a grant from the Human Ecology Fund, the same age-targeted, and the quote describing the contents of the Canawver paper. Curiously, every key phrase in John Lifton's research is present in the paper, but the author's name is not, suggesting a possible transcription error on the part of Marks or direct access to the source material leaked by a source to Marks. A reward for intending to reach out to him and see if he has the source material in question, but I am confident that I can find it without going to anyone myself to scrutiny by attempting to contact Marks directly.

In comparison, the Canawver paper is a good match, although not perfect. Canawver's study of the medical records of the forests extending beyond the tip of the penis was removed. This was called "What" it is from the term from the Jewish Religious Covenant circumcision ritual Brit Milah or Brith Milah got its name.

Following "What", some sources would would still contain a complete safe portion of the foreskin per the penis would have continued to go through its natural development since most of the foreskin would have remained intact. Protection of the glans would still have occurred. The foreskin would not be stripped off the glans and would naturally separate from the glans gradually as the child matures, much as it would had the child not been circumcised. The removal the foreskin would not have been disturbed or moved, and the foreskin's remaining would continue to cover and protect a substantial portion of the glans, especially when flaccid, and the glans would appear as uncircumcised. There would be no exposed nerve endings from the foreskin's removal.

This type circumcision continued throughout the ages and during the time of Christ. Circumcision of Christ would have been this type circumcision as referred to in the Bible. Indeed, Biblical reference to circumcision is strictly this form of circumcision. It continued into the New Testament. It has been argued that Michelangelo's David should show David as Circumcised. Interestingly, Michelangelo presented David precisely as he should have appeared following an infant "What" circumcision. His glans is essentially covered with only the tip of the glans showing.

It had nothing to do with the later development of the removal of the entire foreskin by Talmudic Judaism.

http://www.cirp.org/library/history/aaron2/

Also on circumcision
https://usawatchdog.com/circumcision-in-the-bible-what-was-it-really-all-about-why-on-the-8th-day/

ВУСКАЯ ЧЕЛОВЕК says:
February 28, 2021 at 9:41 am

The american will always find a way to defend circumcision.

Like

GDR says:
February 28, 2021 at 9:41 am

Now this is interesting. Do you have any studies on things which enhance cognitive ability and self awareness? Surely the CIA studied how to make an obermensch.

Back on topic, messing with kids when they are young is THE cause of paraphilias, from my experience. Everyone I know that is gay, queer, lesbian, a trooa, a furry, etc. had early exposure to sexuality in some way.

Like

Leave a Reply

Enter your comment here...

ARCHIVES

June 2022 (1)
May 2022 (13)
April 2022 (12)
March 2022 (13)
February 2022 (16)
January 2022 (11)
December 2021 (11)
November 2021 (13)
October 2021 (15)
September 2021 (18)
August 2021 (12)
July 2021 (13)
June 2021 (14)
May 2021 (18)
April 2021 (17)
March 2021 (15)
February 2021 (17)
January 2021 (17)
December 2020 (19)
November 2020 (18)
October 2020 (17)
September 2020 (22)
August 2020 (21)
July 2020 (19)
June 2020 (18)
May 2020 (19)
April 2020 (21)
March 2020 (21)
February 2020 (21)
January 2020 (26)
December 2019 (23)
November 2019 (24)
October 2019 (23)
September 2019 (21)
August 2019 (23)
July 2019 (24)
June 2019 (17)
May 2019 (21)
April 2019 (20)
March 2019 (20)
February 2019 (17)
January 2019 (23)
December 2018 (14)
November 2018 (16)
October 2018 (17)
September 2018 (1)

Aidan Cantlie
The Editors
Apollo Xenos
Ben Weiher
Nulla Terra Sans Solgenar
Walter Devereux
Cyrus O'neill
Fritz Pendleton
Adam Smith
Nightmare Vision
Earl Shotland
E M Lowden
Kaitlyn Erdess
exeterized
Fred Watson Jr
Ge Prescochoni
Richard Kinnerbern
Hank Dale
Henry Delacroix
internetfleming chrysyan1
Richard Carroll
Jack Buchanan
Bellwood
John Q. Public
Lenyena Mills
Mason Masters
metamenal mengawa Alimony
SaerYe
Nick Mason
Rudo
John Chapman
Michael Sosa
matthewmabill
Zaniel III
R. Landry - Editor
samdexter
SuperLotPenn
Nathan Duffy
Jackson Andrews
Vince Strodak
WS
Withered Rose
Marty Phillips
Zaniel Eng

SEARCH

Search...

Categories

Donate BTC:
1JCKHkCCnPMvHrDCDKLQAmQF
FDbLAkTB
Donate ZEC/ZCH to the Nazi Fund:
t1eUQ
tbdWJ4CTCSUNeAB1BE3aEUtY7
DWG1DXBKwFtmT

FOLLOW US ON TWITTER

Tweets by @thechemicster

The American Sun
@TheAmericanSun
If Lee Enzy wore ice hats leaving the sauna, I'd be saying there's plenty wings only now.
Like

The American Sun
@TheAmericanSun
It's semi-enough at race value, and Jeff Bezos is the richest man in the world. Never alone. I get the "to each thing all on with war war movie" thesis, but a few more billionaires and more establishment being rebranded to promote institutional homosexuality is [illegible] twitter.com/i/web/status/1...
https://twitter.com/i/web/status/1511881...
Like

Sunday Pitchfork
FULL
Sunday Pitchfork Retweeted
spaceport.exchange
@spaceportexchange
In no age at a plane has timeless created so much. Our mission is to make it easier for the list of packages to map the situation is NOT known
Like

The American Sun
@TheAmericanSun
Now that was some gentrification twitter.com/i/web/status/1511...
Like

The Other Side Sans Gent...
@TheOtherSideSansGentrification
Like

Jon Lee @JonLeeArt
There is no stress. It's middle-aged women in an office. Nothing to worry money. Yet something that makes them feel stressed. Like they're in a war. There's nothing scarred about the dog queens, this is how every part of your child's existence is planned
Like

Embed View on Twitter

« Previous Post
Inspectrenet: Unified Theory of Everything
November 29, 2019
In "Conspiracy Drama"

Next Post »
9/11 – a Retrospective
September 11, 2019
With 20 comments

Fracture Cult
September 11, 2019
With 5 comments

PREVIOUS POST
The Unstoppable Myth against the Immovable Regime

NEXT POST
Of Course Bitcoin Will Be Targeted

4 Comments

ADD YOURS

NC says:
February 23, 2021 at 8:17 pm

Fucking life's.. every single time!

Like

Reply

INFO says:
February 23, 2021 at 11:57 pm

Milah: Symbolic Circumcision of Covenant

"The original Biblical circumcision of Abraham's time was a relatively minor ritual circumcision procedure in which only the redundant end of the foreskin extending beyond the tip of the glans was removed. This was called "What" It is from this term that the Jewish Religious Covenant circumcision ritual Brit Milah or Brith Milah got its name.

Following "What", some sources would would still contain a complete safe portion of the foreskin per the penis would have continued to go through its natural development since most of the foreskin would have remained intact. Protection of the glans would still have occurred. The foreskin would not be stripped off the glans and would naturally separate from the glans gradually as the child matures, much as it would had the child not been circumcised. The removal the foreskin would not have been disturbed or moved, and the foreskin's remaining would continue to cover and protect a substantial portion of the glans, especially when flaccid, and the glans would appear as uncircumcised. There would be no exposed nerve endings from the foreskin's removal.

This type circumcision continued throughout the ages and during the time of Christ. Circumcision of Christ would have been this type circumcision as referred to in the Bible. Indeed, Biblical reference to circumcision is strictly this form of circumcision. It continued into the New Testament. It has been argued that Michelangelo's David should show David as Circumcised. Interestingly, Michelangelo presented David precisely as he should have appeared following an infant "What" circumcision. His glans is essentially covered with only the tip of the glans showing."

It had nothing to do with the later development of the removal of the entire foreskin by Talmudic Judaism.

http://www.cirp.org/library/history/aaron2/

Also on circumcision
https://usawatchdog.com/circumcision-in-the-bible-what-was-it-really-all-about-why-on-the-8th-day/

Like

Reply